Docket No. CG 09-158

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On March 3, 2011, John Gockley, Vice President of Legal & Regulatory Affairs for US Cellular and the undersigned met in person and via phone with Joel Gurin, Mark Stone, William Friedman, Lynn Ratnavale, John Adams, Kurt Schroeder, Rebecca Hirselj, Nancy Stevenson, and Arthur Scrutchins of the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau, and Joel Taubenblatt, Christina Clearwater, and Nicole McGinnis of the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau to discuss US Cellular's current product offerings and billing practices including The Belief Project. During the course of that discussion, US Cellular discussed it's current product offerings and also advocated that the Commission exercise restraint in the adoption of regulatory mandates that could discourage wireless carriers from differentiating themselves from each other in the context of service offerings in a competitive marketplace.

US Cellular also indicated the fact that just under 50% of it's post paid customer base has opted to receive automatic usage notification pursuant to the Company's Overage Protection program.

We intend to file responses to a number of questions posed by Bureau staff in a subsequent letter.

Sincerely,
/s/
Grant B. Spellmeyer
Senior Director – Legislative & Regulatory Affairs
